

How to revise your notes

Revision, revision, revision, the part we all find the most difficult and tedious. It can be hard knowing how to revise, or what the “best way” is. Particularly if you’re closer to exams and have lots of things to revise for.

WHAT IS THIS SECTION?

On this part of the revision section, we have given you a few different ideas and methods of what we believe are effective forms of revision. Of course, this is to be done after you’re top level notes are created, but arguably this is the most important part – the knowledge!

Revision is totally individual to all of us, so if you’re unsure as to what method works best for you, try all three and see what you makes you feel you have acquired the most knowledge.

THINGS YOU'LL NEED

- Your full attention (put your phone on do not disturb. Definitely no TikTok, unless it is the lightuptutor of course!)
- Some scrap paper (this will help with some of the revision techniques to consolidate your learning)
- Will power (it’s not going to be easy, and at times you may feel frustrated, but you won’t give up as you’re going to get there, it just takes a bit of time)
